

Annual program: portrait drawing

During the annual program on portrait drawing, we will learn how to create a portrait, focusing on likeness. We pay attention to the correct translation of proportions, tonal values and expression of the model.

The first part (September to December) will consist of the analysis of the large shape of the head and the features of the face. During the second part (January through April) of the course, model sessions are scheduled primarily so that we have plenty of time to practice.

A large part of the course we will engage in sculpting. Knowledge of how the structures of the head are oriented in space will benefit our drawing skills and visa versa.

The year ends with the 'open studio portrait'. During these lessons there is plenty of time to practice.
